

Easily manage and protect your Apple devices – now with Jamf and Prianto

3 February, 2026

Munich: Jamf, the leading Apple enterprise management solution, and value-added distributor Prianto announce their strategic partnership.

Jamf and Prianto are pleased to announce that they will now jointly offer solutions for identity, device, and endpoint management of Apple devices. With the addition of Jamf, Prianto strategically strengthens its portfolio, as more and more companies are relying on Apple devices.

Jamf's goal is to simplify operations, following an "Apple first" approach, and in the case of JAMF Pro, an "Apple only" approach. This is why JAMF offers the most comprehensive Apple device management capabilities on the market. This solution allows for the centralized management, configuration, and security of macOS, iOS, iPadOS, VisionOS, and tvOS devices.

Jamf's commitment to simplifying workflows means that the company is fully committed to Apple. "Jamf is the only company worldwide that offers a complete management and security solution for an Apple-first environment that is secure for businesses, easy for consumers to use, and protects personal privacy. That's why we are so pleased to be able to offer our partners this high-quality solution exclusively for their enterprise portfolio," commented Oliver Roth, Managing Director of Prianto, on the strategic partnership. "We look forward to working together."

"As a channel-first organisation, Jamf is committed to building a world-class partner ecosystem that delivers meaningful value for both our customers and partners. Our partnership with Prianto underscores this commitment and marks an important step in strengthening our channel presence across the DACH region.

"Germany, Austria, and Switzerland are strategic markets for Jamf, where we continue to see strong momentum and significant growth potential. Partnering with Prianto will enable us to accelerate our expansion, better support our partners, and scale our business across the region. I'm excited to be working with Prianto as we enter the next phase of our channel journey and look forward to a successful, long-term partnership,” said Jay Epton, Senior Director, Global Resell and Distribution at Jamf.
