

Jamf Threat Defense

Sub-processors

Jamf may engage vendors to provide services on our behalf. Any vendor who may process Customer Content, as defined in Jamf's Software License and Services Agreement (SLASA), are considered sub-processors and are disclosed below. As set forth in Jamf's Data Processing Agreement (DPA), Jamf has adequate data transfer mechanisms in place with each sub-processor.

| Sub-processor                         | Location(s) of processing                                                                                                                                                            | Purpose of processing                                       |
|---------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------|
| Amazon Web Services, Inc.             | Ireland                                                                                                                                                                              | Cloud hosting (Core services)                               |
| Amazon Web Services, Inc.             | Australia, Brazil, Canada, France, Germany, Hong Kong, India, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Singapore, South Africa, South Korea, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, United Kingdom, United States | Regional edge services*                                     |
| Astronomer, Inc.                      | United States                                                                                                                                                                        | Orchestration and workflow management for data pipelines    |
| Gainsight Inc.                        | United States                                                                                                                                                                        | Customer experience analytics and in-product communications |
| Google LLC(Google Cloud Platform) | Belgium, Netherlands                                                                                                                                                                 | Regional edge services*                                     |
| MongoDB, Inc.                         | Ireland                                                                                                                                                                              | Managed database services                                   |
| Tableau Software                      | Ireland                                                                                                                                                                              | Ad-hoc requests by customers for reports                    |
| The Rocket Science Group, LLC         | United States                                                                                                                                                                        | Email notifications                                         |

|                              |         |                         |
|------------------------------|---------|-------------------------|
| (Mailchimp)                  |         |                         |
| T-Systems International GmbH | Germany | Regional edge services* |

* The countries listed for regional edge services are dynamically chosen based on proximity to the endpoint.

Jamf may use additional sub-processors for customer support – see the sub-processor listing for Jamf Support.

Last updated: November 5, 2025